Chicago Neighborhood Bike Tours

Lee Diamond is co-owner of a small real estate brokerage, Big Shoulders Realty, located on the city's Northwest Side, who realized that not every homebuyer is alike. Some, like him, would rather travel the city by bike than car, and what better way to check out a potential new neighborhood than seated atop a two-wheeler, cruising at a modest pace up and down its streets. Before long, Diamond was conducting neighborhood tours focused on the many architectural wonders that make up our city. The tours, intensely researched and planned, have become little marvels of city living, one of those serendipitous things—a free bike tour with really good planning and information!—that deserves all the praise we can muster.
